When you make a verification request to establish your account, our Identity Services Provider may use information from your credit report to help verify your identity. As a result, you may see a "soft" inquiry entry on your credit report with the Identity Services Provider, indicating that the Social Security Administration made an inquiry at your request and the date of that request. Soft inquiries do not affect your credit score, and you do not incur any charges related to them. Soft inquiries are displayed in the version of the credit report provided to a consumer and are not reported to lenders. Soft inquiries will not appear on your credit report from other providers. Soft inquiries are generally removed from your credit report after 12 months. Once you have registered for an online account, you will not generate additional soft inquiries by logging in to access our services.

I was pretty sure I answered correctly, but I got the dreaded 24 hour lock-out anyway (see next page).

More than 24 hours later I went back and again clicked on "Create an Account."

Then I went through the same type stuff as originally described above but with a different question or two posed to me. It worked this time and I then proceeded to the page to choose user name and password and security questions.

That worked and then I gave them my cell phone number so they could text me a security code as an additional safety measure. It came and I entered it and clicked submit and I got the following:

Yay, I did it! I clicked on Next and I was in! My assistant tried all this and did not get locked out at first but made it on her first try. So far I have talked to other clients some who got locked out on the first try and some who didn't.

In any case at this point, I'll have this part out of the way and be ready to sign up for Parts A and B when the time comes, as you too can do.
